Health Literacy Assessment

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Brandeis
UNIVERSITY

- We are submitting documents and resources for consideration for a Health Literacy Assessment by graduate students at the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health
- This connection came about from our attendance at the DOL Women's Bureau Paid Leave: Equity in Implementation Conference in June in D.C.
- Brandeis University presented data from a study they did of paid leave websites; we followed up after the conference to discuss in more detail
- One of the lead researchers in the Brandeis Study is an instructor at Harvard and shared the health literacy project opportunity with us

CT Paid Leave in the News

FOX61

- Monthly press releases are part of our proactive PR strategy
- First week of August was national health center week
- We partnered with CHC-ACT (Community Health Center Association of CT) to issue a release
- Fox 61 picked up the release and published it on 8/8/24
- Deb Polun, Chief Strategy Officer, was also a guest on the podcast

HEALTH

This is National Health Center Week | Know your options

Connecticut's community health centers offer critical access to care for over 420,000 patients who seek their help, the CT Paid Leave Authority reports.

Top things to know if you work for a tribal enterprise i.e., a federally recognized tribe or tribally owned business

- A tribal enterprise is not a covered employer under CT Paid Leave unless the tribe enters into an agreement with the Governor of Connecticut for participation. That means their employees do not contribute to the program and they are not eligible for benefits.
- Looking for information about whether your tribal enterprise has entered into or is in the process of entering into an agreement to participate in the CT Paid Leave program, contact your union leadership (if any) or your tribal leadership.
